Valchy

Just letting you know the PRA-FRA page was updated with the FRA information at 2 p.m. as planned and the server refreshed the page by 2:30. Ben Jordi over at employee communication got the message out to internal audience before 3 p.m.

Hi

This is what shows on the live site -- are changes needed?

<https://www.archives.gov/><https://www.archives.gov/news>

| The National Archives has posted Presidential Records and Federal Records Guidance

Both link to <https://www.archives.gov/news/fra-pra-guidance>

Thanks

Hi

The page that it links to is updated, but the homepage update needed a tweak to get it to appear. Sorry for missing this (I'm filling in for Crystal this afternoon and just got out of a meeting and didn't get to check after I'd originally made it live).

The homepage is set to use the following with the link to the page:

The National Archives has posted Presidential Records and Federal Records Guidance

Note that we're aiming to get the Communications Staff trained to be able to publish without Web Staff assistance.

Please let me know if there are questions or if revisions are needed.

Plan to post statement on Federal Records Act

Below is a proposed plan to post a statement (to Archives.gov) regarding the NARA role in preserving federal records and the guidance provided to federal agencies, especially with regard to public websites and social media. The short statement will be posted to the website. The attached Trending Topic Document is a backgrounder for NARA use in responding to media and public queries. We would like to post the statement early next week. Please review and send back any necessary changes. Thank you!

Review note: Laurence Brewer wrote the language. A plan for placement on Archives.gov is complete. Links within the statement will point to previously published guidance already on Archives.gov.
